Northern Nuggets

Influenza has been making a few of the population feel somewhat "under-the-weather." Among those forced to abandon daily work were Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Currie, Mr. R. McRoberts and Mr. Clisdale, Master Gary Ramsay recently returned home from hospital where an attack had him as a patient for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas McKenzie of Innisfree (nee Myrtle McKenzie) spent several days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Ramsay.

Messrs. Robt. Lukens, C. Ramsay, P. Miller, F. Clisdale and sons have been assisting Mr. Archie Fleming with his threshing. We understand Mr. Fleming has to make future trips to Edmonton for treatments but is managing favorably in his work at present.

Mr. Lloyd Johnston who desires to start his career in the R.C.M.P. force has apparently successfully passed his medical and entrance examinations. We understand he is now awaiting his "call up."

Allen Bros. have received some eighty head of cattle as a start to their winter feeding plan for Weiler and Williams of Edmonton. They expect a few more carloads shortly. Mr. Robin Johnson assisted in driving the livestock to the Allen farm from Mannville stock yards.

Messrs. W. D. Ramsay and D. McKenzie were Wainwright visitors Monday.

Some of the younger set from out our way attended a chicken supper and dance at Orbendale recently.

Ambler Bros. sale which took place Nov. 5th is reported to have been a high price affair. Many of our citizens attended and were successful in bringing home a few items.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Ramsay were entertained to a popcorn feed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Ramsay Sunday evening. Better get your supply of popping corn soon as there are only some thirty shopping days till Christmas.

Mr. Erling Larson has been very busy hauling grain for his neighbors.

Cornack presented Mr. and Mrs. Smogard with a purse of money from their friends in Kinsella and district. Mr. Smogard suitably replied. A delicious lunch was served by the ladies after which Auld Lang Syne was sung.

Mr. Wm. Carpenter was a visitor at his home here last week. Mr. Wm. Turnbull is in Calgary as a delegate to the U.G.G. convention.

HALLOWEEN IN IRMA, 1946

The night of Oct. 31 saw the youngsters of Irma celebrating Halloween in traditional style. It was a fine night and the young fry were out early and in full force. Some believed in "Lone Ranger" tactics, while others travelled in pairs or in groups of from three to a dozen. Had "Dagwood" been in residence here, he would have seen more "little people" in his home that night than he ever does in the fannies.

The youngsters had taken considerable thought and care in regard to costumes—There were cowboys, Indians, colored folks, hobos, Pinochios, girls dressed as boys, boys dressed as girls, "fat men," clown, animated "potato sacks" and ghosts and witches galore.

How many children were afoot that night? One lady reports giving a hand-out to 77. It is hard to say if that is a record or just a good average.

Those who played host to this motley crew managed to surmount the rationing difficulties in one way or another and by the end of the evening the bulging sacks contained loose popcorn, popcorn balls, oranges, iced cake, cookies, dried figs, hot dogs and a few candies besides the usual Halloween apples.

So passed another Halloween with happy memories for all concerned and no property damage throughout the whole village.

ADDITIONAL NAMES

Following is an additional list of names for the obituary of the late Mrs. M. Flewelling: Church Memorial Fund: Mr. and Mrs. E. Carter and boys; Mr. and Mrs. J. Halverson; Mrs. Margaret Munroe; Mr. and Mrs. Raham and boys.

Wear a Poppy Remembrance Day

In Flanders' Fields

In Flanders' fields, the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.
We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders' fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe!
To you from failing hands, we throw
The torch. Be yours to lift it high!
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies blow
In Flanders' fields.
Lt.-Col. John McCrae

Wedding Bells

GLASGOW-KNUDSON
A wedding of interest here took place in St. Stephen's Chapel, Edmonton on Monday, October 14, at 4:30 p.m., when Miss Aletha Knudson, daughter of Mrs. Ina E. Knudson and the late Mr. Knudson, of Irma, became the bride of Mr. Albert David Glasgow, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Glasgow, also of Irma.

Rev. C. E. Rogers of Edmonton performed the marriage rites. The bride was lovely in a slipper-length gown of white silk-jersey with short sleeves and opera gloves. Her floor length embroidered veil was held in place with a Queen Anne headdress and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses with white baby mums. The only jewelry worn was an engraved earring and pendant set, a gift of the groom.

Attending her cousin as matron of honor Mrs. Pendleton of Irma was charmingly gowned in a floor length aqua crepe with wide peplum and pearl sequin trim. She wore a chapel veil with Queen Anne headdress similar to the bride's and carried pink carnations. Mr. J. Watt, of Edmonton, uncle of the groom, supported him as best man.

A reception to the immediate family was held in the Cottage Tea Rooms following the ceremony, where the bride's table centred by a beautiful three-tiered wedding cake, was daintily decorated with baby mums. Rev. E. C. Rogers proposed a toast to the bride to which the groom fittingly responded.

Mr. and Mrs. Glasgow later left on their honeymoon to motor to Vancouver and Victoria via the States. For travelling Mrs. Glasgow chose a brown dressmaker suit and accessories with yellow top coat.

The bride is well known in the district and has served the Wainwright division as public health nurse for over a year, making many friends during that time. The groom was a former member of the RCAF and recently returned from overseas.

FITZPATRICK-HISSETT

Wainwright United church, decorated with autumn flowers, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday, October 23, at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon when Dora Hissett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hissett of Wainwright, was united in marriage to Gordon A. Fitzpatrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Fitzpatrick of Holyoke, Alta. Rev. W. J. Whelan performed the marriage ceremony.

The bride was lovely in a floor length gown of white sheer over taffeta with satin bodice and net yoke. She wore a chapel veil of silk net and carried a bouquet of red roses and white baby mums with fern. Her only jewelry was a three-strand pearl necklace, a gift of the groom.

Miss Joyce Hissett, as bridesmaid for her sister, was charming in a floor-length gown of heaven blue sneer with long full sleeves, fitted bodice and full skirt. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Mr. Ivan Fitzpatrick of Holyoke, supported his brother as best man. Mrs. W. Long supplied the wedding music and also sang a solo during the signing of the register.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception to a large number of relatives and friends was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Madder at Fabyan, where the rooms were tastefully decorated with asters and snapdragons. The bride's table was centered by a three-tiered wedding cake embedded in a wreath of flowers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hissett chose a black dress with gold trim and a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Arnold Frazer poured coffee during the reception and Mrs. George Madder presided over the tea urns with the bride's two sisters, Misses Rena and Jenny Hissett, assisting with serving the guests. A toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. W. J. Whelan and responded to by the groom.

After a honeymoon spent in Edmonton, Mr. and Mrs. Fitzpatrick will make their home in Dewberry. Out-of-town guests included Misses Jackie Poff and Rena Hissett of Edmonton, Miss Jennie Hissett of Biggar, Sask., Mr. and Mrs. G. Fenton, Mr. and Mrs. H. Barton, Mr. and Mrs. E. Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. T. Bacon of Irma.

The Nuernberg Trials

IN A WORLD WHICH HAS GROWN accustomed to events of immense importance following each other in quick succession, it is difficult at times to evaluate what is happening in terms of its effect on the future well-being of the world. The Nuernberg trials have now been ended for some time and other news has succeeded the accounts which for many weeks appeared in the press, telling of the grim proceedings dealing with the accused leaders of Nazi Germany in the late war. It would be well, however, for the trials to be always remembered, for they marked a milestone in the course of human history, and there have been few events so filled with importance to this and succeeding generations as the dealing out of justice to those men who plotted together to bring misery and destruction to millions of innocent people.

Not Planned For Revenge

Although there are undoubtedly many who would feel that the sentences imposed were fitting retribution for the evils which the Nazi criminals had perpetrated, it was clearly indicated that revenge was not the motive of the trials nor did it influence their outcome. Rather, for the first time in history, these men were tried in an impartial court of justice with all the rights of prisoners in any free country, for their fiendish crimes against humanity. If the Nuernberg trials have the effect which it is hoped they will, statesmen in the future will be aware that they cannot bring peril upon people and nations at will without some day being liable to be called to account for their actions at a court such as was conducted at Nuernberg.

Excuses Were Not Accepted

The excuse put forth by the Nazi defendants in these trials, and by other war criminals before them, namely that they were the tools of others, in higher positions, was not accepted. In refusing it, the court at Nuernberg established a precedent which should in the future deter statesmen and others in authority from instigating crimes such as were committed in Europe between 1939 and the defeat of Germany. During that time, millions of people were subjected to the cruelties of internment camps, extermination centres and other forms of degradation and cruelty, such as the almost incredible treatment dealt to the people of the village of Lidice. It is unthinkable that the world should again witness such horrors, and it is to be sincerely hoped that the lesson of the Nuernberg war tribunal will be well remembered, and will be instrumental in preventing any repetition of violation of human rights such as have occurred during the last decade.

When Royalty Travels

Every Precaution Is Taken And Veteran Engineers Share Driving Job

The Manchester Guardian says the King and Queen to London for the opening of the "British Can Make It" exhibition was done at a quicker speed than if it had been undertaken by Queen Victoria. Though high speeds were possible in her day, she always stipulated a maximum of 40 m.p.h. when she travelled, and even had an arrangement by which she could signal for a reduction of speed or a stop.

In her day it cost something in the region of £10,000 to make the double journey by royal train from London to Ballater, and it is said that Queen Victoria once spent £10,000 a year on railway travel.

The King pays first-class fares for every member of the royal party travelling, and before the rise in prices he paid 13s. 4d. a mile for the use of the royal train; he would have to pay more today!

Great precautions are taken and elaborate arrangements made whenever royal travel by train. Level-crossing gates are locked, goods trains in sidings are examined, and the royal train is signalled mile by mile. No one man has the privilege of driving the train, the honor being shared by a number of veteran drivers.

LESS LIVESTOCK

Survey Shows A Decrease In All Classes

According to the survey of the principal classes of livestock on Canadian farms as at June 1, 1946, a decrease in number was recorded in all classes—horses, cattle, sheep, and hogs—compared with 1945, as follows:

Horses, 2,396,850 in 1946, a decrease of 187,950 since 1945. Milk cows, 3,913,900 in 1946, a falling off of 84,300 compared with the numbers at the corresponding date in the previous year. Cattle (including milk cows), 10,385,000 in 1946, a decline of 373,600 from 1945. Sheep and lambs, 3,378,400 in 1946, a drop of 243,400. Hogs, 5,377,300 in 1946, is a decrease of 648,300.

The decline of horses on farms occurred principally in the Prairie Provinces. In regard to sheep, the only Province showing a gain over 1945 in numbers is Saskatchewan where a slight increase is recorded (518,400 head as against 513,200 in 1945). The all-over reduction in numbers of sheep for Canada was 213,400 or 6.7 per cent.

Lake That Vanished

Shoe Of Water Five Miles Across Disappears In Australia

The mystery of the "lake that disappeared has Queensland, Australia, scientists puzzled—and disputing. Which of the theories advanced is correct may never be known, but these are the facts:

Lake Nooga Nooga, situated on Warranville station, north of the Carnarvon Range in Queensland, was a considerable body of water. At its widest part it was about five miles across; its depth varied from a few feet to 20. On Christmas Eve, 1944, a muffled explosion was heard in the district. Local residents say that from then on the area of water steadily decreased. Today, all that remains of Lake Nooga Nooga is a strip of mud about 100 yards by 20. Since the explosion, there has been no life in the lake.

Residents in the locality believe the Christmas Eve explosion opened a channel to an underground shale layer, which is thought to run through to Springsure, 70 miles away. But a Queensland University geology professor thinks evaporation, caused by abnormally dry weather, is the real explanation of the lake's disappearance.

Two other "mysteries" on Queensland's Atherton Tableland are Lake Barrine and Eacham. Though these two lakes are 3,000 feet above sea level and have no connection with any watercourse, they are ideal. The lakes are 10 miles apart and district residents believe they are connected by a subterranean channel.

Local legend: A native woman was drowned in one of the lakes in the pioneer days, and her body was found in the other.

MAY BE RIGHT

Starting and perhaps not so funny was the answer to this examination question:

"What is the significance of the eleventh of November, 1918?" One observing member of the class responded: "That's the day the Armistice of World War I was signed and there have been two minutes of peace each year since"—Christian Science Monitor.

"But Murgatroyd—you don't have to wait until morning before you eat your crisp delicious Grape-Nuts Flakes."

"I don't? Then pull up a cake of ice and we'll sit down to a couple of bowls of these multi-rich, honey-golden Grape-Nuts Flakes!" "Son, you'll be able to wrestle a walrus on all that grand nourishment in Grape-Nuts Flakes: carbohydrates for energy; proteins for muscle; phosphorus for teeth and bones; iron for the blood; and other food essentials!"

GEMS OF THOUGHT

STABLE CIVILIZATION

He who shall introduce into public affairs the principles of primitive Christianity will change the face of the world.—Benjamin Franklin.

All that is best in the civilization of today, is the fruit of Christ's appearance among men.—Daniel Webster.

The true test of civilization is, not the census, nor the size of cities, nor the crops, but the kind of man that the country turns out.—Emerson.

I believe from my heart that the cause which binds together my people and our gallant and faithful allies is the cause of Christian civilization.—King George VI of England.

If we would reach a stable civilization, we must penetrate below political and economic troubles into their causes and bring about a fundamental change in the bases of life.—Arthur H. Compton.

Mankind will be God-governed in proportion as God's government becomes apparent, the Golden Rule utilized, and the rights of man and the liberty of conscience held sacred.—Mary Baker Eddy.

ONLY TWO COURSES

NEW DELHI.—With immediate effect only two courses can be served in Delhi restaurants instead of three courses as hitherto. This is the latest attempt by the central government to combat the India famine menace.

Supply Still Short

But Situation Regarding Pure Black And White Pepper Is Improving

The shortage of pure black and white pepper will last another six or nine months, W. Edgar Ducharme, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Spice association, estimated.

Pure pepper has been scarce since the Japanese overran pepper producing countries in the Far East but Mr. Ducharme said steps had been taken to reorganize production and the situation was improving gradually.

NEED OF COD LIVER OIL

Parents are reminded by the Department of National Health and Welfare, Ottawa, that this is the period of the year for starting children on Cod Liver Oil again. Without sunshine or fish liver oil, healthy bone and tooth development is not possible, say the health authorities.

For Safe Driving

Clear Vision And Proper Care Goes Far To Prevent Accidents

About now is the proper time for motorists to consider safe driving in bad weather. Lives are at stake from indifference, carelessness and wanton neglect. The importance of a clear windshield for snowy, rainy days can not be too strongly emphasized. Clear vision is essential to safe driving and proper care will go a long way to insure better vision. Dried out rubbers, hardened by oxidation, should be replaced at once and those wipers that do not really clean the windshield should be changed. The prevention of "accidents" is vital to safe driving for the motorist and the innocent driver of the other car. It is better to be reasonable now than to try to explain to the coroner.—Brandon Sun.

STATISTICS SHOW COST OF LIVING FOR FARMERS UP

OTTAWA.—Farmers are paying more for commodities, services and living costs, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said. A composite index covering changes to farmers rose three points to 141.6 between April and August.

The new figure was an increase of 5.6 per cent. over August, 1945. The Eastern index at 124 was up 3.2 points in the April-August period while the Western index at 140.5 represented an increase of 2.9.

A greater variation between East and West was apparent in the increases over August, 1945, levels—4.9 points in the East and 6.8 points in the West.

Each adult inhales a gallon of air per minute, and consumes 30 ounces of oxygen daily.

Outlook Better

Population Growth Prospects For Canada More Favorable Than U.S.

NEW YORK.—The outlook for continued population growth by natural increase is far brighter for Canada than for the United States, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company statistics show. Based on birth records of the two countries, the statistics indicate that in the years 1940-1942, Canada's population grew at the rate of 27 per cent. per generation while the United States rate was just a little more than requirements for a stationary population.

NO UNEMPLOYMENT FORESEEN IN UNITED KINGDOM

LONDON.—Supply Minister John Wilmot stated that unless the British government "made some terrible mistake," there would be no unemployment in this generation such as that which occurred between the First and Second Great Wars.

Mr. Wilmot, addressing an audience in his home constituency of Deptford, in southeast London, said that Britain was entering a period in which the only limit to consumption was production. He added that the more Britain could produce, the more she could have.

Canadian Citizens May Enter U.S.
Up To Six Months Without
Passports

WASHINGTON. — Attorney-General Tom Clark announced that Canadian citizens may enter the United States for visits up to six months' duration without passports, visas or other documents.

The new regulations are the result of negotiations between Canada and the United States which have been carried on intermittently for some months.

Mr. Clark said the new procedure "will enable Canadian citizens to enter the United States under much the same conditions as American citizens are permitted to enter Canada."

Under wartime travel restrictions Canadian citizens were admitted for up to 29 days without being registered and fingerprinted under the alien registration act if they held proper travel documents.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

Too Cute To Know

By BETTY BAXTER

Copyright
Wheeler Newspaper Syndicate

LINDA's feet scarcely touched the ground as she dashed from the street car in through the main entrance of McGonagles', the city's "Largest and Smartest Store". All salesgirls were expected to be at their respective counters by nine-thirty sharp, and the store itself seemed to develop a thousand eyes and a frightening frown if she were just one minute late. This morning nothing seemed to go right. Mrs. Jordan, her landlady, who had been calling her at seven-thirty ever since Linda's alarm clock broke and had to be taken to the junkies, overslept and it was only by chance that the sharp honk of a car passing by awakened her. The girl at the corner luncheon seemed more impatient than usual. She poured the coffee with the leisurely air of a dowager at a tea table and seemed to dare Linda with her eyes to say anything as she paused and made a few bright remarks to a young sailor before placing the steaming cup in front of her impatient customer.

At nine thirty-two Linda was at her counter of children's ready-to-wear giving her short feather curls a few reassuring pats. Her face lighted up with the brightest of smiles as she saw a tall young man, smartly dressed in grey, approaching her counter.

"Good afternoon, Miss Morton, and may we have this counter looking a bit better today," remarked the young man caustically, ignoring the welcoming smile of the salesgirl.

"Of course, Mr. Dodge. I'm very sorry I was late. Shall I rearrange this display?"

"That won't be necessary. Just remember that we must be punctual if we are to maintain the efficiency of this department."

Linda watched the departing figure of Mr. Dodge. He had been the floor manager of the children's ready-to-wear for two months. A discharge pin shone smartly on the lapel of his coat and he carried himself with the air of a person who knew what he wanted. And then she forgot the counter, the display, and the cares of the store and thought of Chris. Chris with his sunny smile and the way he would think of any excuse to tease her. She didn't mind hurried breakfasts, slow streetcars, and tedious days at the store, if Chris were waiting for her at six o'clock. If Chris were waiting for her at the Copper Kettle, their favorite meeting and eating place, as he had been ever since—well, ever since anything had started to be important, everything would be all right.

For six weeks the Copper Kettle had been their secret meeting place, and each evening was something to look forward to. Everything they did was special. Linda liked best of all their walks through the park and climbing that highest hill by the river in the evening, and looking down on the city with its hundreds of light-shining carelessly and temptingly below.

Chris had only recently been released from the army. New Guinea, the Solomons, and Luzon were already becoming a distant memory. Sometimes, he told Linda, he wondered if he had actually experienced those frightening days and nights when with some of the men in his company they had taken place as to how many would leave the islands alive. Well, he had left Luzon alive, but on a stretcher. With shrapnel wounds in his arm and a broken leg, he returned to the States, first to Letterman General in San Francisco, and then near home where he spent many months in an army hospital. The long weeks with his leg in traction gave him plenty of time to think. Time to make plans for the future. At 27 years he still had a lifetime before him and he didn't intend to waste the valuable lessons the army had taught him.

Linda could still hear Chris saying, "You can't learn a business by starting at the top. I entered the army as a buck private and I intend to do the same in business. The officers that earned the respect of their men most easily were those who knew the life of an enlisted man by real experience. Dad wants me to be his assistant. Well, I won't do it. And what's more, I'll not even be known as Old F. C.'s son. I'll be an independent nonentity until I can prove my own value—such as it may be."

Linda agreed with him implicitly. Though, she told herself, she probably would agree with him if he said the best way to become vice-president of the United States was by swimming Lake Superior. Not that Linda Morton wasn't a rational, sensible young girl. It was just that these last few weeks with Chris made anything seem possible.

"Good, Linda, what did Mr. Dodge say?"

"Why he said? Don't you care, Linda? You're our best salesgirl and he knows it." Millie broke into Linda's daydreams and brought her back to the child's ready-to-wear, McGonagles' incorporated.

"It was nothing," Linda reassured her plump little friend and co-worker. "Just a few suggestions. I'll really get a calling-down if I'm late again."

Linda took care of a customer who came to the counter, and exchanged the sweater she returned for a different size. The day dragged by as it always did when she was going to meet Chris—each hour a week, with the usual 15 minutes for coffee and millie's commentaries on late at McGonagles' which today were generously flavored with Mr. Dodge.

"Honestly, Linda," Millie chattered on. "How can you put up with it? He's nice enough to the rest of us girls, but he's just a jerk to you. You completely or else criticize your money. Maybe you should warm up to him a little. Maybe he thinks you're too cute to know."

"Thanks, Millie," laughed Linda. "Perhaps I should change my tactics but for some reason I just don't care. My thoughts begin and end with Chris. You know that. It's silly, I know. But I want to get over it."

The fifty-third bell rang at last. The salesgirls quickly covered their merchandise and ran for their coats. That is, all the girls except Linda. Linda checked her makeup meticulously, placed her little navy hat just so, and went down the escalator and out of the store.

"So I'm too cute to know. A fine thing," she mused as she strolled along.

Her heart beat a little faster and her cheeks were a becoming pink as she walked into the Copper Kettle to her waiting Chris.

"Well, Miss Morton, must be late again!" said a grinning J. Christopher Dodge, Jr. "For this last piece of inefficiency I request that you turn in your resignation and devote your entire time to being Mrs. J. C. Dodge, Jr. Besides, my sweet, I'm afraid our little game couldn't last much longer. The management would distinctly frown upon my taking you in my arms every time you came in late. Am I right?"

Though the answer wasn't exactly audible as he took her in his arms, there was no question to Chris, or to the friendly waiter standing nearby that Linda agreed with her boss and liked it.

CANADIAN AUTOS

Have Appeared On The New Zealand Market

AUCKLAND, N.Z.—The first post-war Canadian automobiles have only recently appeared on the New Zealand market, almost a year later than those from Britain. Cars from the United States still have not started to arrive.

Canadian cars which have so far arrived are all of one make and are assembled at the firm's works in New Zealand. Before the end of the year fairly large supplies of several makes are expected however.

Standard model, Canadian cars available are selling at about $2,250. This is higher than the price for popular types of small English cars of eight and 10 horsepower which sell at about $1,600 to $1,900, but compares favorably with the larger English cars.

Next to the United States and Canada there were more cars per capita in New Zealand than in any other country before the war. Although its population is still below 1,750,000, dealers estimate that there is an immediate market for 400,000 cars in the Dominion if they could be supplied.

In 1938, the last full importing year, New Zealand imported 7,897 un-assembled and 39 assembled cars. This was well behind the 17,000 cars imported from Britain, but ahead of the 2,600 from the United States.

Dress For Weather

Wearing Proper Clothing Is One Way To Prevent Colds

Before No. 1 health menace—the common cold—gets you, begin your conquering strategy by starting out for the day dressed for the weather. Becoming chilled or overheated in guess-their-clothes makes you a push-over for the sniffles.

Best way to cope with weather that crowding gran into the dress in clothes that can be shed or added to, as the need arises.

Give a glum day the benefit of the doubt by carrying along your rubbers. Rubber-soled shoes for shoes stuffed into the pocket of a coat or bag are good health insurance to take out against the possible hazard of wet feet, which are high on the list of suspects as the cause of colds.

Begin right now to lay in a reserve of good health by eating more protective foods. Get enough sleep, and plan to get some exercise every day.

Mrs. Snagg: "Did I understand you to say Mrs. Perkins is interested in business?"
Mrs. Bitters: "Yes."
"What business is she interested in?"
"Everybody's."

"Oh, I don't know. After all, taking them as a whole, they are funnier."

The minister was asking one of his flock why he had not attended church lately.

"Well, you see, sir," said the man, "I'm troubled with a bunion on my foot."

"Strange," said the parson, "that a bunion should impede the pilgrim's progress."

Said Mr. Hobson: "A baby's troubles, that's true; but remember the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world."

Replied his wife: "Well, then, suppose you assume world dominion for the evening while I go to the cinema."

"Good bless me and make me a good girl," said little Joan, "and send aunty's soldier home safe and single."

The village milkmaid bought a horse for the morning road. It was not exactly a thoroughbred, but it had four legs.

One day he took his bargain to the blacksmith to have him shod. The smith regarded the weary-looking animal critically, paying particular attention to his lean body and sagging legs.

"You ought to have a horse there some day," he said at length. "I see you've got the scaffolding up."

A doctor was attending a pretty film star who had been ill for some time.

"You've got acute appendicitis," he announced.

The girl sat up indignantly. "I say, cut out the freshness," she said, "but to be examined not admired."

The first guided missile to the moon probably will crash into it about 1950, Arthur Clark, a former R.A.F. flight lieutenant now a student at London University, said.

Lecturing the British Interplanetary Society on Spaceships, Clark said fuel would be the main trouble and human beings who thought they might follow shortly after the first mechanical attempt were likely to be disappointed.

Read our mail:

Calgary Power Co. Ltd.

Dear Sirs:

The shortage of materials for line extension is national. We shall now have to delay your shipment again. We are doing all we can to help send the material we know you urgently need.

A Pole Line Equipment Co.

This kind of mail explains the delays in new service connections—even though we are now and have been making service connections at a more rapid pace than we did before the war. Equipment is even harder to get now than during the war—we have not been able to keep up with our orders for new connections, and new transmission line construction is also being delayed. We are doing all we can—and thank you for your patience.
